Eastbay Aviator Held In Chile, Wanted In Richmond

2 BOYS HELD ON GRAND THEFT CHARGE

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

St. Mary's will play its first 1930 football game Sunday at Kezar stadium.

* * * *

And the St. Mary's fans of Richmond will all probably turn out full blast.

* * * *

At the same time the American Legion football team of Richmond is to play its first game.

* * * *

Claude Samples, coach of the local squad, is quite confident that his team this year will be a record breaker.

* * * *

The locals will have several tough games to play, one of them being with the San Francisco Legion team, a group of eleven famous ex-college stars.

* * * *

Now is the season of the year when these syndicates are flooding newspaper offices with offers for new serial stories:

* * * *

Such as: "Too Proud to Die," "Only a Millionaire's Son," and other fiction.

* * * *

Some of it's worth looking over, while others is thrown into the wastepaper basket.

* * * *

Considerable amusement is gained by newspapermen over these stories written for the daily press by sport lights and others.

* * * *

A census made by a certain writer revealed that only one out of ten writes their own stuff.

* * * *

The same applies to some of the famous cartoonists.

* * * *

About every artist who has syndicated strips appearing in daily newspapers, has an understudy who assists him in drawing.

* * * *

If you will notice, recently a famous cartoonist died. But his strip is still being drawn for Sunday papers.

* * * *

And no one would hardly know the difference.

* * * *

It must be a great life.

* * * *

Getting back to football, a lot of California fans are wondering just what the California team will do this season.

* * * *

As usual, they are hopeful that Nibs Price will be able to turn out a wonder team that will beat everything on the Pacific Coast.

* * * *

On the other hand, one never knows.

Perjury Seen In Vote Probe

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 23.—UP—The senate investigating committee's probe of the Nebraska primary election probably will be taken before the United States Senate and may result in filing of perjury charges against George W. Norris, Broken Bow grocer, Senator Gerald P. Nye, committee chairman, said tonight.

After completing today's hearing, Senator Nye told the United Press he believed the facts surrounding grocer Norris' candidacy for the Republican senatorial nomination against Senator George W. Norris could be learned only at Washington.

"It seems that the filing of perjury charges against grocer Norris is the only way we can get to the bottom of his candidacy," Senator Nye said. "But don't ask me now whether or not I intend to file charges."

Senator Nye said that he is convinced grocer Norris will not divulge his supporters and will not call him to the stand again.

BOBBY JONES LEADS IN PLAY

MERION CRICKET CLUB, Ardmore, Pa., Sept. 23.—UP—Bobby Jones missed a chance to set another golfing record today, and that's more of a story than the fact that he equalled one and led all the field in the qualifying test of the 34th national amateur championship.

Bobby was disappointed, because he only equalled the only qualifying record of 142, established here six years ago by "Ducky" Corkran and equalled once before by Jones himself in 1927.

The Atlantan needed only par figures for his last four holes today to blast that record to pieces. But he went over par on three of those holes and just did equal it.

They will be some doughty golfers awaiting a crack at him in the 18 hole and 36 hole test to come.

There will be George Von Elm, grim faced Californian who shot a brilliant 70 today to finish second to the Atlantan.

There will be "Doc" Willing, another fighter from the far west, whose qualifying aggregate was 145 and Fay Coleman, the Culver City boy who bettered par with a 69 today to tie the Oregon dentist.

Soviet Wheat Dumping Held To Be False

LONDON, Sept. 23.—UP—American trade authorities in London said tonight that reports that exportation of wheat by Soviet Russia was causing a vast lowering of prices on the Liverpool market were based on erroneous statistics.

A section of the press has done its utmost to convince the British people that Russia is ruining wheat farmers of Britain, the United States, Argentina and Australia, the foreign experts contended.

They said groups of important brokers also have been using the Russian wheat "bogey" to lower prices and attempt to break the Canadian wheat pool and the United States farm loan board. The propaganda concerning the Russian wheat situation has been misstating the correct figures, the experts said, in reviewing the present situation.

Repeated surveys of the crop situation in the Soviet territories show Russia must cease grain exports by November 1, with the likelihood that before spring the Communist state will be forced to import wheat, according to the American trade authorities.

The present Russian export shipments are necessary, it was said, because the Soviet owes huge amounts for farm machinery and must have gold to meet payments of interest on the principal. It was also said that the vessels, cited by proponents of the theory that Russia is dumping wheat in Britain, range in size from 5000 tons to 8000 tons and they also carry lumber, matches, flax, poultry and other goods in addition to the wheat cargoes.

Prices on the Liverpool market declined somewhat today but only about half the extent estimated in the London press. The American authorities said, however, that the chief reason for the decline was not the Russian imports but the huge world carry over.

CARDINALS IN WIN OVER PHILLIES

By United Press.

The St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Phillies Tuesday, 19 to 16, and now need only two victories in their remaining four games to clinch the national league pennant even if the Chicago Cubs win their remaining four games.

If the Cubs lose one game, the Cardinals will have to win only one game out of four to clinch the pennant. If the Cubs win all their games, the Cardinals can tie for the pennant by winning one game.

The Cubs were idle today and the Cardinals increased their lead to three games. Brooklyn was eliminated from the race when the Robins bowed to the New York Giants, 8 to 2. It was Brooklyn's sixth straight defeat and left the Robins one percentage point ahead of the Giants.

The Cardinals hammered the offerings of four Phillie pitchers for 26 hits but had trouble with their own pitching in their final game on the road. Raehm had an 11 run lead but weakened in the fourth. Jim Lindsey was ineffective and Bull Hallahan, who finished the game, had trouble in the ninth, five runs crossing the plate before they were finally retired.

There were no games scheduled in the American league.

German Party Head Faces Treason Count

LEIPSIG, Germany, Sept. 23.—UP—The state's attorney at the trial of three Facists accused of treasonable plotting among the army corps in southern Germany announced today that proceedings on a charge of high treason were being instituted against Adolph Hitler, head of the powerful German Facist party.

The announcement that Hitler was under prosecution on charges of high treason was made during the trial of three former army lieutenants, Hans Ludin, Richard Scheringer and Hans Wendt, who were arrested in southern Germany on charges of plotting to build up Fascist "cells" in the field artillery regiment number five of the army.

Hitler's attorney who is acting as counsel for the defense, proposed that the court examine Hitler on the question of whether his party aimed to use violence to carry out its avowed policy of overthrow of the government and abolition of the Republican constitution.

At that point one of the government counsel intervened and said Hitler himself was under prosecution for high treason and State Attorney Nagel admitted the statement was true. Nagel would not give any additional details, but the court decided to call Hitler as a witness Thursday morning.

The trial, which was regarded as of political significance because the recent election made the Fascists second strongest party in the Reichstag, also was expected to show the extent to which Fascism has penetrated the army. The first testimony was given by Scheringer, who indicated that his conversations at Hitler's Munich headquarters showed the Facists intend to achieve their ends (overthrow of the republic) by legal means and "not" by revolutionary method."

Spit is a horrid word, but it's worse if on the end of your cigar

Over 7,500 cigar factories are registered by the U. S. Government. Over 7,400 of these hand-roll cigars, producing 50 percent of the output. Every hand-rolled cigar—made by American Cigar Co. or anyone else—is subject to the possible danger of "spit-tipping." Certified Cremo is absolutely free from spit-tipping—No Cremo is made by hand.

Every leaf of the choicest, finest tobacco entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that bind, roll, wrap and tip the cigars!

DEATHS OF 3 ANDREE MEN TOLD

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 23. UP—The story of the deaths of the three members of the Salmon Auguste Andree Polar expedition of 1896 may be revealed by study of a second diary written by Andree, the government announced tonight in making public additional data on the expedition.

The second communique covered a summary of documentary material found among the possessions of Andree and his two companions on White Island, where they perished in the Arctic.

No new light was thrown on the deaths of members of the expedition, but it was announced that the government hoped to ascertain the cause of the deaths by further study of data and conferences with Polar explorers who have studied the Arctic region.

The data discussed in the second communique, signed by Prof. Nile Lithberg and Prof G. J. Anderson, and Prof. Hans Ahlmann, included maps of the route of the balloon in which the expedition flew northward and of the route they followed in weeks of wandering over the ice fields of White Island.

FIESTA YEAR FOR STATE PLANNED

Plans for a great fiesta year in California in 1931 are being enthusiastically supported by a number of state-wide organizations with a view to stimulating tourist travel to this state. The idea of a series of brilliant civic and municipal entertainments throughout teh state, making 1931 "California Fiesta Year," will undoubtedly increase the tide of motor travel from the east to this state, points out the California State Automobile association, which is cooperating in the program.

Motor tourist dollars promote prosperity and they go where community activities attract them, spreading their benefit to many lines of business, according to the motorists' organization which reported today that three billion dollars are spent annually in the United State sby tourists. Automobile association figures show that motor tourists spend 26 percent of their travel budget for merchandise, 20.5 percent in restaurants; 17.3 percent in hotels, 11.5 percent for gasoline, oil and automotive commodities and the remainder for amusements, local transportation and incidentals.

"California Fiesta Year" is being sponsored by the California Newspaper Publishers' association with the cooperation of the State chamber of commerce, the San Francisco convention and tourist bureau, the Automobile club of southern California, the California State Automobile association, the chambers of commerce of Oakland, Sacramento, Los Angeles, Pasadena and other cities, the railroad companies and other important agencies.

The idea is to call attention to newly developed fiestas in all parts of the state in addition to the one hundred and eighty established annual celebrations so that touriests from other states will be provided with a variety of novel and distinctive attractions every week of the year. It is hoped to increase the number of community fiestas to an average of at least one a day somewhere in California during 1931. This, with the State Chamber of Commerce coordinating to avoid conflict of dates and sameness of type of entertainment, it is planned to stage a series of celebrations which for number, extent and attractions will exceed anything ever attempted by any state in the Union. That such a program will heavily augment the normal influex of motor tourists and other travel to California next year is the confident expectation of the organizations supporting the fiesta year plans.

POWELL FILM WILL END TODAY

If you're one of the ten million people who found the ultimate in thrills in William Powell's portrayal in "Street of Chance," you've still to experience the greatest of the Powell characterizations. It's for you "Shadow of the Law" is showing for last times today at the Fox-California Theater.

"Shadow of the Law" is a new type of picture for Powell. This role gives him none of the sophisticated superiority of the Philo Vance portrayals. Nor yet does it impose a sinister glow. The Powell of "Shadow of the Law" is a quiet-living engineer drawn into a web of circumstances which land him in prison. The story is packed with drama, excitement, unusual and novel scenes, rounded, human characterizations, really great acting and solid entertainment.

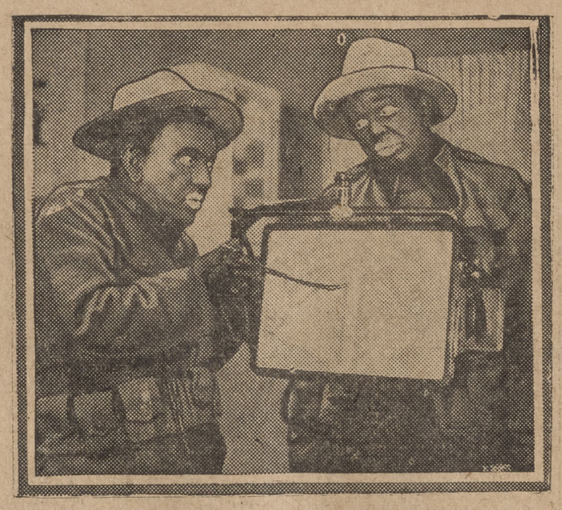
Innocent, Powell is convicted of murder, sentenced for life; desperate he breaks out of prison in a thrilling escape, establishes a new identity, meets romance; fugitive from justice, he cannot declare his love; tracked down, he takes a daring, thrilling chance, proves his innocence, assures his happiness.

That's the story of "Shadow of the Law" in brief. But it doesn't tell anything of the gripping drama the heart-breaking suspense, the heart throbbing happiness that's wrapped up in this film. Max Marein, inspired by John A. Moroso's great novel "The Quarry," wrote the story, and L. Gasiner, ace hit-maker, directed it.

The cast includes two women well worth seeing, Marion Shilling a comparative newcomer, recently signed by Paramount, and Natalie Moorhead, the blonde beauty who won acclaim in "The Benson Murder Case." Regis Toomey, seen with Powell in "Street of Chance," has a strong role in "Shadow of the Law."

Also on the program is a Laurel and Hardy comedy entitled "Night Owls."

Anybody's War



MORGAN AND MACK are the featured players in "Anybody's War," which is to be shown at the Fox-California theater tomorrow.

EXPLORATION TOLD AT MEET

BERKELEY, Sept. 23.—A new picture of the frozen Arctic and Antarctic regions was presented to the National Academy of Sciences at the first western meeting of that body, at the University of California, by Isaiah Bowman, director of the American Geographical Society of New York.

Director Bowman pointed out the Arctic and Antarctic are not only the world's last great frontier and lands of mystery and adventure, but are the repositories of metecrological information that must be gained before man can be said to have gained control of nature. He prophesied that the Arctice seas, when better known, will offer shortened routes for maritime commerce that Arctic air will support shortened routes for intercontinental air travel, that data from the Arctic and Antarctic will help to protect man from the forces of nature, protect ships from icebergs, and open up the last great center for whaling and fishing.

He said in part: "We still live in the age of discovery, at whose threshhold stood Herodotus and Prince Henry and Eric the Red and Columbus. Indeed, if the men who made the age of discovery were to compare their lot with those of today they would vigorously assert that we, not they, live full within that age, for they would see a gravity-defying man flying upside down in the air or walking in an air-bubble helmet on the floor of the sea or hitch-hiking on the tail of a storm, like Eckener between the Sea of Okhotsk and Tokyo in his flight of August, 1929. However old the world may seem when judged by the record of the rocks, it is in an intellectual and exploratory sense tremendously new.

"One of the major problems of animal migration is still in the stage of hypothesis for want of critical evidence that Antarctica may yet supply.

"Among the leading objectives of all polar explorers of the past 100 years are meteorological observations. In ever increasing degree the polar explorer is besought by science to obtain exact records in increasing numbers in high latitudes. Less attention was paid to this feature of exploration in earlier years because the dynamics of the atmosphere was until recently so little known."

Director Bowman stated that the period 1932-33 has been designated as the Second International Polar Year. He said: "The work of the Second International Polar Year and the meteorological observations of Arctic and Antarctic explorers in recent years are both inspired by a profound curiosity as to the suspected influence of weather conditions in high latitudes upon those of the temperate regions as well as the tropics. The atmosphere is governed by physical laws and it is sought to discover the working of those laws. We are here dealing with some of the greatest natural forces of the earth. To appreciated the magnitudes involved take the figures given by Shaw. He calculates that subject to a correction of not more than 5 percent for air displaced by mountains the mass of air in the northern hemisphere exceeds its mean value by over 5 billion tons in January, and falls short of its means value by over 5 billion tons in July. This great shift of 10 billion tons of air from hemisphere to hemisphere, is the equivalent of a mass of air 30 miles wide extending quite around the earth. The total energy of the motion of the winds of the earth has been calculated at "something near 20 billion horsepower hours."

London OK's Traffic Light

LONDON—After studying systems in Berlin, Paris and other cities, London has adopted her first automatic signal control for traffic.

The first signals were installed early in July at Ludgate-circus, where New Bridge street, the approach to Blaickfriars Bridge, meets Fleet street, a heavy traffic point. Early trials proved the lights a success, although in the first few days, half a dozen policemen were stationed at the various corners to accustom drivers to the new arrangement.

Automatic traffic control probably has been slower in coming in London than other big cities because of the nature of the streets and traffic. There are very few wide thoroughfares so that heavy bus traffic is confined to a few main arteries. Then, there is probably a larger number of horse-drawn vehicles than many of its Continental neighbors, and than in any city in the U. S. This traffic, combined with the large number of push carts and cycle carts probably accounts for much of London's street congestion and has delayed installation of automatic systems.

The signals at Ludgate-circus are upright standards with the usual red, amber and green lights, one on each corner, and one in the middle of each intersecting street.

If they prove efficient, the automatics probably will be installed on other busy corners.

BLACK CROWS IN COMEDY FILM

Growldom has a new barkie star. He is Mutt, a four and a half year old atavistic Sealyham, and he plays the part of "Deep Stuff" in "Anybody's War," the latest comedy picture starring Moran and Mack, the Two Black Crows.

Mutt was the strange pup in a litter of perfect Sealyhams. His parents are blue ribbon winners, but Mutt possesses none of the desirable points of a show animal. In fact he is atavistic, a throw-back to the undesirable traits of some far-removed progenitor.

But what he lacks in appearance Mutt makes up in personality. He has exhibited a gift for acting ever since he was purchased for film-training at the age of nine months by Robert East. He was in "Hula" with Clara Bow; in "Stranded in Paris" with Bebe Daniels and in a number of Big Boy comedies for Educational.

In "Anybody's War" Mutt is shown as the favorite captive of a pack of 79 dogs of all sizes and many breeds which Mack, the kind hearted dog catcher, keeps in his home because he can't bear to see the 'critters' die.

When the Two Black Crows are sent off to the war in France, Mack takes Mutt with him. The funny-looking little pooch proves to be a hero at the front.

This picture opens tomorrow at the Fox-California theater.

Lipton Arrives At New York City

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—UP—Sir Thomas Lipton, the man they call the "world's best loser," returned to New York today, debarking from his yacht Erin.

Asked what he thought of the proposal that his admirers contribute toward the purchase of a trophy for him, in lieu of the America's cup his yachts have failed to win, Sir Thomas merely smiled.

Mayor James J. Walker, incidentally, already has received $1,-250 in contributions and the cup soon will be presented to Sir Thomas.

New Lows On Stock Market Show In Day

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—UP—Grains continued their decline to new low ground for many years today, but the stock market ignored this and made a technical recovery of 1 to 3 points throughout the greater part of the list.

If an average were made on the oils and coppers it would show a reduction for both these groups were behaving poorly throughout the day. In the copper division Anaconda and Kennecott made new lows on fears of further dividend reductions, while the oils hovered around their lows and a few broke through. In the latter group sentiment was dampened by an increase in crude oil production and late in the day by a reduction of 2 cents a gallon in gasoline prices by Standard Oil company of New Jersey.

News for the railroads was mildly bullish, but that group eased off for the day. Net operating income for the month of August was 29.3 percent over July although it was down 24.3 percent from August 19929 and 10.8 percent from August, 1928.

The general behavior of the stock market was not particularly impressive despite the showing made in the net gain column. The buying was mostly short covering and was taken to represent a mere hesitation in a decline of greater consequence than has been seen.

Before the rally 74 issues made new lows for the year of which 50 were for all time.

The situation in the grain market was plainly discouraging. Sport wheat sold at tre lowest level since 1906; oats reached a new low since 1922; and rye a new low since 1896. Wheat futures closed off 2 to 2 1-4 cents; corn off 1 7-8 to 3 cents; rye off 2 5-8 to 3 3-4 cents and oats 1 1-8 to 1 7-8 cents a bushel.

Cotton futures were depressed 8 to 11 points, every position closing on the lows for the day. New Orleans cotton lost 5 to 7 points. Rubber and silk futures made new lows for all time.

Some betterment was reported in foreign fields. Some buying of American stocks by Europeans was reported.

Among the gains in leading issues on the stock exchange were U. S. Steel up 2 3-8; Radio up 1 1-8; American Can 4 3-4; Westinghouse Electric 2 5-8; Fox Film A. 2 1-4; Loew's 2 1-4; Consolidated Gas 2 3-8 and Vanadium 2 1-4.

UNITED STATES OF EUROPE STARTED

GENEVA, Sept. 23.—UP— The slow and admittedly difficult task of organizing a United States of Europe was started today at a meeting of representatives of the 27 European nations.

Aristide Briand, the French foreign minister was inaugurated the Pan-Europe project, was elected chairman of the organizing committee, which he termed "a meeting of study for a European Union." Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the League of Nations, was chosen secretary of the committee, which will meet again in January.

"I hope today will mark an auspicious date in history," said Briand.

"We must begin simply. There will be no heroic steps taken today—but only the work of organization and of giving ourselves a name."

Plan Told

The work of organization outlined by Briand provided for each country to have one representative on the committee and one substitute. The work will proceed with Briand's memorandum and the responses received last summer as a basis and the committee will adopt a real working agenda in January when it meets again at the time of the next league council sessions.

Meanwhile, Drummond will gather all economic and political material available for study by the members in the intervening period.

Next Meet

Briand said January was chosen for the next meeting because it was expected the tariff truce conference would be held in November and an economic conference would meet in October, both of which will furnish important data for the pan-Europe plan. He urges each representative to study economic solutions to improve the European situation and to work hard on the problems.

Briand and his colleagues were in ecellent humor when the meeting adjourned, and all were enthusiastic concerning development of the project.

A note of discord was struck, however, in the economic commission session, where Walter A. Riddel, dominion advisory officer accredited to the league, rebuffed the pan-Europe plan by declaring any system for preferential tariff treaties in Europe would exclude American exports from the continent.

Differences Of Speeches Will Be Lost Soon

BERKELEY, Cal., Sept. 23.—Speech differences, so prevalent in the language of the American people, will largely be lost within the next century.

That is the belief of Miss Jean Campbell MacMillan, lecturer on speech making and dramatics with the University of California Extension Division.

The lecturer believes that the spread of rapid communication will be responsible for the future similarity in speech. She says, "The radio, the talking picture and transportation facilities, which enable a person to go to any part of the country with easy facility, are ironing out the differences in regional speech. The average American, also, is beginning to realize for the first time just how important the voice is, and that it is the main currency of making contact with the rest of the world."

Miss MacMillan will inaugurate classes for the university this week and next for adults in the bay region. San Francisco classes are held at 540 Powell street; Oakland classes at 1730 Franklin street. Demand for speech classes is responsible for the scheduling of more than 20 courses for this fall, Extension Division officials state.

Gun Accidents Cause Of Many Blind Cases

NEW YORK CITY, Sept. 23—UP—Accidents from firearms are a serious cause of blindness in Mexico, states Dr. Daniel M. Velez professor of opthalmology at the University of Mexico, in a report on "The Causes and Prevention of Blindness in Mexico," published here recently by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

"To prevent such dangers," Dr. Velez suggests, "only firearms of the best quality should be used, and inexperienced persons should receive instruction in handling them before using them. These wounds are a menace not only to sight but also to life itself.

Incidentally, persons attempting suicide by applying the mouth of the firearm to one of the temples generally do not kill themselves, but they bring about the complete destruction of the optic nerve and subsequent total blindness, Dr. Velez comments.

The most serious of all eye diseases in Mexico, according to Dr. Velez is trachoma, a disease of the eyelids which frequently leads to blindness. Another important eye disease is ophthalmia neonatorum, commonly known as "babies' sore eyes."

The total known blind population of Mexico is approximately 15,000. There are fewer blind in the southern tropical region than in the northern states.

WHEAT HITS NEW LOW PRICE

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—UP— Aggressive attack by the Russian bear, reported on all the important foreign grain markets, helped send wheat prices tumbling to new lows for the year today on the Chicago board of trade.

A fake message from Winnipeg, a sharp break in Liverpool prices and investigation of charges by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde against Soviet Russia also tended to depress the market.

In Minneapolis, September wheat sold for less than 80 cents per bushel for the first time in history. The closing price was 79 1-4 cents. Chicago wheat prices ranged from 1 -78 to 2 cents lower, with September deliveries at 77 7-8 cents.

The bogus telegram from Winnipeg received in Chicago said that the Manitoba wheat pool was to be taken over by the government. The message apparently was designed to depress prices still further. John Bracken, premier of Manitoba, told the United Press in Winnipeg:

"There is absolutely no truth in such a rumor. No such suggestion has ever been made by my government. You cannot make the denial too emphatic."

Liverpool prices sagged when cheap Russian wheat continued to be offered there while the second commission of the League of Nations, meeting in Geneva, heard vigorous protests regarding Soviet dumping of wheat and lumber.

The whole situation tended to center American attention on the Chicago board of trade, most important grain market in the world. Traders were nervous, kept the market under constant liquidating pressure while officials awaited further word from Secretary Hyde.

MARTINEZ, Sept. 23.—The appointment of a clerk to the motor vehicle department office here will be asked by the board of supervisors when it meets Monday.

A knowledge of typing and bookkeeping is required for the position, for which several applications have already been made. The job pays a salary of $150 a month.

MARTINEZ, Sept. 23.—Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie has distributed the estate of the late A. W. Best of the Home Laundry company in Richmond, to Mrs. Lillian P. Gilbert, of Los Angeles a daughter. The estate is valued at more than $10,000 and Thomas M. Carlson is attorney for the estate.

Scholarships At University Are Announced

BERKELEY, Sept. 23.—As a result of a gift by Mrs. E. S. Heller of San Francisco, funds have become available for ten new scholarships of $200 each, open to freshmen of the University of California, according to an announcement made today by President Robert Gordon Sproul.

The new scholarships will be known as the Sidney Hellman Ehrman Scholarships for Freshmen, as a memorial to Sidney Hellman Ehrman, nephew of Mrs. Heller and young alumnus of the University with the class of 1927, who died on June 1, 1930, in London, England, while pursuing graduate studies at Kings College, Cambridge.

One scholarship of $200, in addition to the above, for a sophomore, junior, or senior who is a son or daughter of a veteran of the Great War, has been established by the American Legion Auxiliary, Department of California.

The late Sidney Hellman Ehrman was graduated by the University with honors in history. He continued his studies after graduation and was awarded a Master of Arts degree in 1928. He at once left for England and entered Kings College, Cambridge, where he was a student for the academic year 1928-29. There his work was regarded as brilliant, according to word received by Dean Monroe E. Deutsch, and a splendid career as a historian seemed to be ahead of him. A summer of research and travel on the continent followed. In September, 1929, he was stricken down by an illness against which he fought for eight months, but which eventually overcame him.

His father Sidney M. Ehrman, well known San Francisco attorney, who is also an alumnus of the University of California, being granted the B. L. and LL. B. degrees in 1896 and 1898. The son published his first book in 1928, "Four Silhouettes of the Renaissance."

In an appreciation written shortly after his death, Dean Deutsch, vice-president of the University said: "He was a young man of splendid mind and of keen intellectual interests; he was wholly natural and unspoiled, kindly and warm-hearted. Such a loss, so untimely, is past human understanding."

Lady Godiva Drives Machine

SAWYERWOOD, O., Sept. 23.—UP—A modern Lady Godiva who rode in a car instead of a horse disrupted the serenity of Squire Liston McIntyre's courtroom today.

After the last case had been disposed of a blushing policeman, entered with a woman who wore exactly the same costume as did the fabled wife of Leofric. She had two men companions, fully clad. They had been driving through Sawyerwood in a motor car, the policeman complained.

Squire McIntyre, after a moment of amazed silence, motioned the three to seats in the courtroom while he retired with attaches to discuss whether Sawyerwood should punish where conventry did not.

But when he returned he found the trio had gone. Returning to their car they had continued their journey to an unannounced destination.

Respirator In Use To Aid Two

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—UP—The drinker respirator or "artificial lung" at the Children's hospital here, was doing double service today, as two girls, one eighteen and the other seven years of age, were being alternately placed in it in the hopes of saving their lives. Both girls were suffering from infantile paralysis. Recently a young woman died because she could not have use of the respirator. Two new machines have been ordered but are not yet delivered.

RUSSIAN ART GOOD, FOOD POOR

BERKELEY, Sept. 23.—There is no art gallery in Europe which boasts such a large number of matchless works as are found in the Shchukin and Moro ov collections in Soviet Russia, but neither is there any country which serves such poor food.

This is the opinion of Professor, Eugene Neuhaus of the University of California, who has just returned from conducting a tour of northern Europe, including Russia. His impressions of Russia, of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics as it is now called, were obtained and published by an anti-Soviet newspaper in Riga, the day after he left Russia, and a copy of the paper arrived in Berkeley with him.

In this article Professor Neuhaus explains that he is an artist, not a politician or economist; so he is unable to pass judgment on the Russian experiment, or to do more than comment on the things that he saw.

He states: "I was agreeably surprised to find in the museums and art galleries so much order and so much wealth. Everything is meticulously catalogued and all objects of art have numbers and leaden seals affixed to them. The high quality of the pictures in the Shchukin collection, which is now combined with the Morosov collection, is astonishing. Not in any gallery in Europe will you be able to find such a number of matchless works of art of the Impressionist or Post-impressionist Schools as there.

"We received a very courteous welcome in Leningrad and Moscow. We were given several guides who accompanied us from morning till night. These guides, well-educated young women with a thorough knowledge of their subject, divided their time between watching us and watching one another.

"While in Moscow I was invited to tea by Baron von Dirchsen, German ambassador, and when I left his palais, not being able to find a taxi or droshki, I walked to the hotel. I was shadowed by an armed man. I am convinced that espionage and surveillance are directed against everyone, and that Soviet citizens must fear to talk frankly to one another.

"It seemed to me that, generally speaking, their life is not to be envied. I did not see any 'well dressed people' nor the evidences of comfort enjoyed by people elsewhere. I was impressed by the peasant delegations everywhere wandering through museums and castles and places of interest.

"The entire time of our stay in the U. S. S. R. was maped out from the first to the last minute, and we were taken in motor cars of questionable vintage, from one place to another, with American speed. To my requests to slow down a little so that we could take a look at the streets and the people, there was no answer. When I asked why the people were standing in long queues along the streets, I was told: "Oh this, this is nothing," Eventually I discovered that in reality they stood in lines, long lines, waiting for bread and other necessities. I had not imagined that the food situation would be as bad as we actually found it.

"I have eaten all kinds of food, good, bad and indifferent, but I have never eaten such poor food as in the U. S. S. R. Twice a day we were served with a liquid in which stray cabbage leaves and other vegetables were floating. The freshness and origin of the meat served was highly doubtful. During the entire period we did not see any white bread, while the dark bread was, to use a mild expression, of a very poor quality. Although our hotels were the best available, or so we were told, no sweets or luxuries were to be had.

"The obligatory visits of the program of our tour gave us no favorable impression. In Leningrad we were conducted to a children's home located in one of the former palaces. In the halls covered with propagandist slogans and posters, we saw hundreds of children who were obviously undernourished. It was explained to us that these children spent there from one to three weeks, after which period other children take their places.

"It appears that life is passing under the system of an incessant and intensive propaganda. Thus, in art galleries it was explained to us that Rembrandt, David Monet and others were 'revolutionary' artists and therefore their paintings were particularly treasured.

"Soviet Russia, its people, those of its cities which we saw, the villages through which we passed, all bear the stamp of some sort of gray and crushed despondency. People appear to move about as if unwillingly, as if under compulsion. My impression is that in Russia things are done because they must be done, but nobody appears to care much for his task."

K. Brown Will Probate Asked

MARTINEZ, Sept. 23.—Probate of the will of the late Mrs. Kate Brown of Richmond was yesterday petitioned by E. P. Talbott. Legatees named were a son, Henry N. Brown and a friend, W. E. Shannon. The value of the estate is less than $10,000.

HARLAN FENGLER with the two immense motors for the car which he and Peter De Paolo have designed to break the 231-mile-an-hour record set by the late Major Sir Henry Segrave. Each motor weighs 2,000 pounds and will develop 2,400 horsepower.

Turco-Jap Treaty Seen

TOKYO.—A new Turco-Japanese treaty of commerce and navigation will be signed this month, it was understood at the Foreign office.

The prospective treaty will be superior to the present Turco-Japanese agreement, signed July 31, 1929, and will place relations between the two powers on a permanent basis. The old treaty can be terminated on a six months notice, and always has been regarded as unsatisfactory by Japan.

The Foreign Office last month instructed H. Nihei, counsellor of the Japanese Embassy in Istanboul (Constantinople) to negotiate the new agreement direct with the Foreign Office in Angora. The new treaty will be effective for three years and is drawn up on a principal of equality preventing discriminatory tariff treatment by either signatory.

Three Saved As Trawler Burns

ASTORIA, Ore., Sept. 23.—UP—The fishing trawler, Joy G. of Ilwaco, Wash., was burned at sea late today on the Cratsop county coast after the three men in its crew were rescued, it was learned when the coast guard cutter Redwing returned here tonight.

The Joy G. was burned to the water's edge and then sank. The crew, believed to have been Artie Graham, owner, and his two sons, were aboard the pilot schooner Columbia.

The Columbia is without radio and remained outside with the rescued fishermen.

Lecture To Be Given On U. S. Federal Reserve

BERKELEY, Sept. 23.—"Can the Federal Reserve Control Credit and Avert Disaster?" will be the topic for the first of a series of three popular lectures to be delivered Wednesday night, at 8 o'clock, in Wheeler auditorium, on the Berkeley campus, by Dr. Ira B. Cross.

Dr. Cross is professor of economics on the Flood Foundation at the University of California and has served on the Carnegie Peace Foundation, the California Industrial Accident Commission, the United States Commission on Industrial Relations, the War Industries board, the United States Shipping Board and the Macy commission. He is the author of several volumes on economics, industry and finance which are used as text-books throughout the country. Dr. Cross is also vice president of the American Economics association and dean of the American Institute of Banking, San Francisco branch.

Lectures to be delivered on October 1 and 8 are 'How Will the New Tariff Affect American Business?" and "Economic Barriers to Peace."

BOMBARDING OF ATOM PLAN TOLD

BERKELEY, Sept. 23.—At the closing Berkeley session of the first western meeting of the National Academy of Sciences a method was proposed of speeding up the nucleus of the hydrogen atom, known as a proton, to such a point that it may be used at a bullet for battering more complex atoms and, perhaps, for changing one element into another.

The new method proposed, if successfully carried out, will enable science to transmute substances or disturb atomic nuclei without the use of high electric fields or super-vacuum tubes. It was reported by Associate Prof. E. O. Lawrence and N. E. Edlefsen, assistant in physics of the University of California.

This modern scientific means of dispensing with the "Philosopher's Stone," for which the ancient alchemists sought, consists of driving a proton around an electrical racetrack with constantly accelerated speed until it acquires a kinetic energy of the order of one million volt-electrons, and then shooting it at other atoms.

The protons are obtained by splitting atoms of hydrogen by spark discharge, a comparatively simple task. The atom of hydrogen consists of only one proton, or positively charged unit, and one electron or negatively charged unit. The protons so obtained are caught in an electrical field and given a kick forward. At the end of a definite path they are turned around by a magnetic field and shot back through the electrical field. The current in the field is alternating; so that by the time the proton is turned around and started back over the straightaway of the track, it receives another kick. The process is repeated indefinitely until the proton acquires sufficient velocity to serve as a bullet for breaking apart other atomic nuclei.

The chief problem is to have hydrogen gas present in sufficient density to serve as a source of protons, and at the same time of sufficient rarity to allow the protons to be propelled around the racetrack without collisions with the atoms of hydrogen.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

How the American Business Woman Sells the World

NEW YORK women, especially those in business or the professions, have had a new reason to be proud since the very recent election in Geneva of one of their number, Lena Madesin Phillips, as the first president of the new International Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

Miss Phillips is well known as an attorney in this city, and as the organizer and honorary president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, the membership of which includes some 50,000 of the most successful women in the country. Incidentally, two more American business women have been made officers of the new International Federation. Miss Dorothy Heneker of Montreal is its secretary and Miss Henrietta Harris of Springfield, Mass., is treasurer.

The first practical move of the Federation will be the establishment of clearing-houses of information and introduction in each member country. Thus business women from almost any part of the world can find out about business conditions and opportunities in other lands, or, visiting them, can obtain helpful business and social introductions. Other forms of international co-operation between the women will be worked out later.

But what interests us most about this practical and inspiring demonstration of internationalism is that it seems to be a case of the American business woman selling the world. As Helen Havener, the brilliant young editor of the Independent Woman, magazine of business and professional women, put it to us:

"The American business woman has captured a new feather to add to her already fairly abundant plumage."

HERE'S how it all happened, according to Miss Havener, who herself attended the Geneva conference, where the new International Federation of Women was born with a smoothness and swiftness of accouchement astonishing to those familiar with the rather cumbersome, long-drawn-out methods by which both men's and women's international organizations have come into being in the past.

"A scant two years ago," Miss Havener recalled, "the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs in our own country first began to make overtures of friendship to European women during summer tours of good will abroad. Now here is the new International Federation, an existent fact. Why is it that American business women have brought about so quickly what many groups struggle for years to attain?

"The answer seems to be that the methods of our women have mastered in the business world they put into practice in their organization life. In their relationship with other women, courtesy replaces elaborate formality. Friendly democracy is substituted for red tape and ritual.

"A group of one hundred and six American women went to Geneva to meet foreign women of many countries, without a specifically formulated program. In fact, such program as there was had to be shaped up at a meeting attended by representatives of each country on the eve of the conference, and everybody had a share in its making. Although the Americans outnumbered the individual delegations from other countries by four or five to one, they contented themselves with the same number of votes. When debate was in progress they carefully refrained from monopolizing the floor. And so they inspired a spirit of real confidence in European women.

"CONVENTIONS where there is animation without acrimony are the exception, but the Geneva conference was like that. And when the three days' sessions closed there existed a bona fide international organization of business and professional women, in which many nations were enrolled, and to which no less than twenty nations have pledged their interested support. Best of all, there was at the head of it an American woman—Lena Madesin Phillips of New York—whose impartiality in presiding, whose spirit of fair play had so won the respect of the foreign women that they elected her by acclamation without a dissenting vote.

"As a successful experiment in democracy the Geneva conference is unique. As a demonstration to the world of how differing national viewpoints may be reconciled, and seemingly opposing factions welded into a unit, it is again almost without parallel. And so I say again that it is a real feather in the cap of the American business woman."

Wherein THE WOMAN OF IT assuredly agrees with Helen Havener. Don't you?

SONG FOR A SMALL SWIMMER

Marion's a mermaid—
That's easy to tell,
For no merely mortal child
Could love the sea so well.

A reincarnated dolphin
Without bright scale or fin—
To some wee water baby
She's very close akin.

Her rubber swimming doggie
She much more enjoys
Than a milk and cookie party
Or a dozen dry land toys.

And her deep-down diving!
Why, it makes her mother pale;
But Marion's a mermaid
Who's looking for her tail.

JUDY ANNE MAHONEY.

The third beauty shop has just been bombed in Chicago, and it looks to us as if some husband or father were taking too seriously the recent announcement that American women spend annually $1,900,000,000 on cosmetics and their application.

WHY WOMEN DON'T WALK

THE WOMAN OF IT: Tell 'em! Tell 'em! Tell 'em! And more power to your pen. Maybe they'll listen to you. I can't seem to convince 'em that walking is good for 'em. I talk and talk and talk and they sit and sit and sit.

They want to start the evening by sitting in a taxi. After they tire of that they want to sit in a theater. When that's over they sit in a restaurant. And then they sit in a taxi again. Of course I don't mind their sitting on a sofa when all that's past, but, gee, this sitting habit is the most unhealthful thing I know of. It makes my wallet positively anemic.

So please keep on telling 'em what a wonderful thing walking is.

A DISH A DAY

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

With the coming of cooler weather pastry is once more a welcome sight on the table, and our ingenue cooks are bewailing the fact that the stove is supplanting the mechanical icebox as a source of seasonal desserts.

"Just as I learned to make icebox cakes and frozen custards," a bride of last June bewails, "the weather has changed and fresh fruits have become scarce in the market. My husband has been telling me about a kind of apple pie they make out West and wishes that I would learn to make them. He says they have no upper crust, but are topped with cocoanut. Have you ever heard of such a thing? And can you tell me how to make it?"

KAREN HOLLIS

I wouldn't have thought of trying to introduce Rocky Mountain apple pies if she hadn't suggested it. The mere intimation that apple pies can be made in any but the usual way is as sure to bring the wrath of New Englanders down on one's head as the suggestion to a Southerner that sugar can be used in cornbread. New Englanders look on apple pie as an almost sacred tradition, and in a little New Hempshire town they will still tell you with bated breath of a woman who committed the serious social error years ago of bringing to a church bazaar some apple pies into which she had put raisins!

New Englanders will permit no such liberties with their culinary customs. The following recipe, therefore, is offered only to those who are not deeply rooted with New England ideas.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN APPLE PIE

1 cup special cake flour
4 tablespoons shortening
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup (about) cold water
5 or 6 sour apples
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons butter
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups cocoanut
Dash of nutmeg

Add salt to flour and cut in shortening with a knife. Add just enough cold water to bind materials together, place dough on lightly-floured board and roll out until large enough to fit a seven-inch pie pan. Pare the apples and slice them very thin. Sprinkle them with lemon juice and mix them well with cinnamon and sugar. Fill the pastry shell with apples and dot with butter. Bake for ten minutes in a hot oven (450 degrees), then decrease the heat to 350 degrees, and continue baking for thirty-five minutes. Cover the top with cocoanut and continue baking ten minutes longer, or until top is slightly browned.

Sports Togs Smartly Assembled

By Ann Roberts

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

THE dress is the most popular spectator sport costume of the moment. It's simple enough—the reason why. You see, it must be wool. It's not really smart in the finest sense of the word unless it is wool—so, a dress for this weather is about all that you can stand. A suit is a little too hot because its blouse should be of wool, too, in order to be right.

So the dress is the costume you see most often at any outdoor event just now, and sometimes I wonder if the wearers of them must not be boiling inwardly even so. They look cool enough, perhaps because they look so awfully well dressed.

The best way to get over the feeling of the new fashion as a whole is to take up the study of an ensemble in its entirety. Everything is right, each accessory goes with the other and with the whole—a perfect costume for early fall weather when sporting occasions are the order of the day.

A Dress and Its Accessories

THE dress is of ostrich feather cloth—you know that material, with real ostrich down used in the weaving. It is even softer than angora and crushes in your hands without mussing. The lines of the dress follow the figure with accented certainty and the color of the fabric is that intense blue so absolutely right at the beginning of this fall season.

Trimming is notable today only for its simplicity. It is done with great restraint and for this dress bands of magenta velveteen are used on the ends of the scarf that ties at the back of the neck. There is a draped cowl neckline in front that leads off gracefully into the scarf. The belt of crushed suede is dark blue-black and ties in a real bow immediately in front.

Now, with this dress a blue suede bag is carried—the same deep, dark blue of the belt. And suede shoes to match exactly are worn.

The hat is a wound-around turban of antelope, again matching the frock, and there is just a band of bright magenta velveteen over one eye and ear.

This is one of the smartest ensembles that has been seen anywhere and an excellent example to go by if you are planning a dress and all of the accessories to go with it.

BROWN CLOTH DRESS WITH YELLOW TUNIC.

BROWN COAT WITH BROWN PERSIAN LAMB TO COMPLETE ENSEMBLE.

A Suit Ensemble

NOW take a dress with its coat—the coat to be worn later, the dress quite right to don on any cool day that happens just now.

This dress I have chosen is brown. Why? Because brown is the season's most widely accepted color. This one is made with a yellow tunic—a bright, glowing bit of color which, by the way, is used again for the lining of the coat. It is a Goupy dress—new and very important in the range of style. It buttons straight down the front with good looking brown buttons.

Brown Persian lamb, one of the season's best selections of fur, makes collar and cuffs, even the belt and a band down the front of the coat.

Then the hat completes the ensemble most stunningly. It is a tricorne of felt gracefully manipulated and carefully made. The hand bag is big and spacious. It matches in color and is made from suede with a big carved amber button to make its fastening and form its only decoration. The shoes are ties of brown suede with built up leather heels, the stockings are sheer brown and the gloves are brown suede also.

Some Don'ts

FOR the winter spectator sports ensemble there are some important don'ts. There's many a slip between the good and the bad.

Don't wear jewelry promiscuously. Keep away from it entirely unless you know that it is right, for the wrong necklace or bracelet can spoil a costume so completely that it might just as well not have been well thought out in the beginning.

Don't carry suede bags with marcasite trimmings. These are only for dressy occasions—for afternoon wear and with more formal costumes.

Don't let your hats step over the border line to formality. Hats this year are difficult to do just right and you want to be sure before you decide just what to wear. As long as berets are still very good and as long as they are so universally becoming cling to them until you are certain what the change, for you, should be.

Speaking of Husbands

A WOMAN was conversing with another at a gathering the other day and she was severely criticized by some listeners because she several times referred to her husband as "Mr."

Of course this woman was not aware that correctly speaking she should have said "my husband," when talking to a stranger, and to a friend she should have spoken of him by his christian name as "John was out." A woman should not refer to her husband as "Mr." except to a servant or a person in an inferior position.

The same rule applies to a man in referring to his wife.

You and Your Child

Managing Children

A MOTHER wrote me the other day, "My boy simply won't practice. He loves music and wants to play, but he refuses to practice. I've nagged at him ceaselessly and I've punished him often—all to no avail. I know he'll be sorry and blame me later on if he cannot play. But what can I do?"

Nagging and punishing are the two means that parents most frequently use to get their children to do the things that are "good and proper." And, as in the case mentioned above, these means rarely meet with success.

"What else can we do?" parents frequently ask. One good way to get a child to do a task is to make it interesting to him. Most tasks can be made interesting in one way or another. Music teaching has made great strides in this direction since my young days. Then lessons were boring, and one had to practice interminable finger exercises. The modern teacher makes her lesson absorbing and gives her pupils "pieces" to practice, almost from the start.

Of course, most jobs involve some routine work. But when a child is interested in a project he will willingly tackle many unpleasantries in order to accomplish his purpose. The youngster who dislikes arithmetic will beg to be taught his figures when he wants to be cashier in the grocery store his class is conducting.

In addition to arousing the children's interest, we can gain their co-operation by showing appreciation and approval. Sometimes, too, a reward helps a young one over a hard place. One mother wrote me recently that whenever her boy learns to play a selection on his violin acceptably, she allows him to make a phonograph record of it. This costs her only a small sum and has proven a great incentive to the boy. But the trouble with rewards is they usually descend into bribes. And then, too, a youngster often holds out for a larger recompense. They should be very sparingly used.

The very best way to get our children to do what we consider best for them, is to arouse their own sense of responsibility. When a youngster does his home work because he knows it is his job, and because he has too much self respect to "fall down on a job," we can feel well satisfied. Such an attitude, of course, is a matter of growth and cannot be expected of the "little ones."

Resourceful parents are always able to think of some way of appealing to their children, to get them to do what is expected of them, without friction.

FILL THE FLOWING PUNCH BOWL

MRS. DORAN, wife of prohibition's head man, is out with a neat little volume of nonintoxicating fruit punches. One hundred good recipes and not a stagger. You can hang around her punch bowl all afternoon and still walk a mile for a cigaret. This compendium of temperance drinks is going to be a best seller, just like Homer's Iliad.

We tried recipe B-31 and it was a grand success. Sliced lemons, oranges and grapefruit, swimming around in a vat of mineral water, with sugar to give it a wallop. The guests hovered over that punch bowl like thirsty Arabs. Not a one of them got cock-eyed, but an ambulance took nine of them away staggering from acidosis.

Recipe 56-X was not quite so successful at the next garden party. It was a swirling mass of peaches, plums and goosberries floating around with a cake of ice. And we made quite a hit with our introductory speech.

"Folks," we said, "we want you to enjoy yourselves. But as long as prohibition is the law of the land, we think all good citizens should respect the Constitution and not indulge in intoxicating punches—at least until the Eighteenth Amendment is legally rescinded. But figuring this cake of ice won't last that long, we have arranged this delicious nonalcoholic fruit punch to assuage your thirst. So let's everybody put his shoulder to the wheel to support the Constitution and come up and get your punch now."

Well, nobody got killed in the rush. In fact, if the punch bowl had been a washtub, equipped with soap and a wringer, it couldn't have kept those ladies and gents away any better. The party was getting dull and it was practically impossible to get the guests started playing leapfrog till we brought in a substitute punch.

This substitute punch was also according to Mrs. Doran's formula, with a slight variation we thought of ourself. We poured mineral water into the bowl, and a cake of ice. To this we added cut-up citrus fruits, including oranges, tangerines and limes, as per Mrs. Doran's directions. But then, instead of putting in the sugar, we sweetened to to taste" with gin and the punch was absolutely great.

It was the hit of the party, in fact, and many an encore was taken. Only one guest got mad and that was because we didn't have enough chandeliers to climb.

You really must call up the public library and your book store and get Mrs. Doran's dandy volume. It has all the favorite punches of the great and mighty.

Mrs. Hoover's favorite blend consists of plain spring water sweetened to taste, with various citrus fruits added, such as lemons, oranges and raspberries. And Herbert has collected enough raspberries lately to use the White House fountain for a punch bowl.

Mrs. Doran didn't ask us to contribute a recipe for her book, but we are giving our favorite temperance punch, just the same. You may even like it better than some she has listed. Anyway, cut this recipe out and paste it on your windshield where the wiper can't get at it.

THE BON TON PUNCH—A cake of ice floating in eight quarts of benzine. Add crushed moth balls and two yards of garden hose, cut up in small slices. A tin of talcum powder, strained through Trader Horn's whiskers, a dash of ink from your fountain pen and then squeeze three inches of shaving cream out of your tube. Sweeten to taste and you'll love it.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

TWO DEAD IN DUEL IN OFFICE

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 23.—UP—Human emotions clashed behind the portals of big business so violently today that the president and the vice president of the Western Maryland Railway were killed either in a pistol duel or in a murder and a suicide.

A fusil'ade of bullets crashed out above the rattle of typewriters in the general offices of the railway at noon. The ensuing silence was broken by two more shots. They had come from the office of Maxwell C. Byers, president and chairman of the board of directors. A flattened pellet dropped onto the floor of the anteroom leading to the president's office.

After a minute of confusion, a clerk peered through a bullet hole that punctured the partition between the president's office and the anteroom.

Body Found

Inside, the body of the president was sprawled on the floor, jammed against the door to the anteroom. Nearby, also on the floor was the unconscious body of First Vice President Dudley G. Gray, 61, who had worked his way up in the railroad game from messenger boy.

A little more delay, and Byers' body was pushed away so that the door could be opened. A clerk saw Gray move.

"Who did the shooting?" he was asked.

Other Falls

"It's obvious, isn't it?" countered Gray, pointing to a .32 calibre Colt automatic pistol which lay on the floor close by. Gray lapsed into unconsciousness.

Both executives were taken to Mercy hospital. Byers was dead. Gray died at 4:20 p. m. without speaking again.

The tragedy proved not so obvious to police as it had been to the dying Gray. After Gray died, surgeons found in his coat pocket a second Colt .32. Police had been divided in opinion as to whether there had been a duel, or whether Gray had murdered Byers and committed suicide. They thought for a time, with the two pistols before them, that it must have been a duel.

Then they found that both pistols had been bought by the same man on April 4, 1917—two days before the United States declared war on Germany. They reverted to the murder and suicide theory.

Late today Coroner Otto Reinhardt announced he would issue a verdict of murder and suicide, and that no inquest or autopsy would be made.

Hall Sanders Speaks Before County Firemen

Hall Sanders, Richmond attorney, was the speaker of the evening at a meeting of the Contra Costa county Firemen's association at Mountain View last night.

Sanders made an interesting speech on "Organization" stressing the value of co-operation, in all forms of organization.

The firemen were treated to a demonstration of the E. and J. resuscitator last night, by L. N. Curtis, district agent of the E. and J. company, from Glendale.

Announcement of a dance, to be held in Crockett Nov. 15, under the auspices of the county association was made, and the subject of standardization of equipment in the county was discussed.

Action on the elimination of weeds along the highway is being taken by a special committee, which plans to take the matter before the board of supervisors so that the grass fire hazard might be eliminated before the 1931 season.

Following the meeting a banquet was served under the direction of Chief Martin of Mountain View, and Martinez was named as the location of the next meeting, Oct. 28.

CLARA BOW IS ACCUSED IN ROW

er resort as Clara Bow, motion picture actress, by a man who said he was Will Rogers, according to McKay.

The alleged "Clara Bow" and "Will Rogers" explained that they were on location near Lake Tahoe, McKay said. A third woman, introduced as Marie Dressler, accompanied them.

Games Played

Several evenings were spent at the gambling games at Calneva, which are legal in the state of Nevada.

The "Miss Bow" lost heavily at roulette, chuck-a-luck and other games, and issued the four checks in payment of her gambling losses.

They were said to have been drawn on the Hollywood branch of the California Bank, which declined to honor them when presented for collection.

Check Signed

While gambling is legalized in Nevada, local attorneys expressed the opinion that gambling debts incurred here could not be collected in other states, nor could checks given in payment for gambling losses be made legally binding upon the signer.

One of the four checks held by McKay was said by him to be endorsed by "Daisy I. Duer."

"She told me she was Clara Bow's secretary," McKay explained.

A private telegram from Hollywood said that the actresses secretary is Daisy Devoe.

CLARA MAKES SHORT STATEMENT

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 23.—UP—Newspaper dispatches stating that a woman introduced as Clara Bow had lost $13,500 in the Calneva gambling house, in Reno, Nev., brought a statement from the actress tonight.

The statement was very brief and made no mention of whether Miss Bow had visited Reno. It said only that if anyone believed he had a rightful claim for money against her she stood ready to accept legal advice.

The published report, credited to the Reno Gazette, said that a woman introduced as Miss Bow visited the gambling house accompanied by a man who purported to be Will Rogers and a woman who said she was Marie Dressler.

The story continued that George B. Thatcher, a Reno attorney, had taken the matter up with B. P. Schulberg, of the Paramount studios, commenting that gambling checks cannot be collected in Nevada.

Advised of the reports, Miss Bow issued the following statement to the United Press tonight:

"If anyone in the world feels he has a rightful claim against me for any sum of money whatsoever, which I deny, I will gladly accept service of any legal document. I always pay every honest debt promptly."

A second statement, issued by B. P. Schulberg, said:

"Certainly no one has gotten in touch with me about payment of any check whatsoever supposedly signed by Clara Bow. I know nothing about any such report."

Miss Dressler said, when informed of the report, that she had not been in Reno, Nev. for years.

New Method Of Telling Sex Discovered

PASADENA, Sept. 23.—UP— A new rule of cells which in effect predetermines the sex of a species of small fly found by Prof. Calvin R. Bridges was explained to the National Academy of Science convention today by the young biologist.

Prof. Bridges said that the new cell rule violates all accepted theories of many years in its predetermination possibilities. Supermales could be produced by influencing the chemical nature of the inner cells, he declared.

Sex was determined in the small flies by means of substances which are known as genes, which are found in the chromosomes, or small bodies of neuclii in the cells, Prof. Bridges said.

His attention was turned to the flies when he noticed they were peculiar in that they had only half as many chromosomes as other flies. He found that some of the flies had bodies that were half male and half female. Sex characteristics were spotted over the bodies as on a pinto horse.

CHURCHGOERS WOUNDED IN GUN FIGHT

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—UP—Jewish worshipers strolling down the steps of a synagogue after services there today only to become embroiled in a furious Chicago gun battle between detectives and automobile bandits.

Four of the churchgoers fell wounded. The others ran screaming down the street, dodged behind telephone poles and ducked into doorways while two bandits pumped bullets at a pair of detectives.

The wounded:

Joseph Kosloff, Louis Waldbaum, Mrs. Rose Kalzsan and Max Sayers. They were taken to a hospital where their wounds were reported not critical.

Although Sergeants Thomas Durkin and Joseph Glennon gave chase in their bullet scarred squad car, the bandits escaped. The battle started when the officers, recognizing the gunmen, called for them to halt. Instead the fugitives started to shoot. Services at the Synagogue ended during the battle.

Judges, prosecutors and police officials met secretely, meanwhile, to extend their vagrancy warrant war against Chicago's most notorious racketeers, gangsters and gunmen.

Judge John P. Lyle, who dug out the old vagrancy law to apply to 25 of the city's "public enemies" told a criminal lawyer after the conference:

"If you knew what is being cooked up for these men (the 'public enemies') you could take a trip around the world on the business you would get."

The two "public enemies," so far arrested, Edward "Spikes" O'Donnell and Lawrence "Dago" Mangano, obtained a change of venue from Judge Lyle's court on the vagrancy charges preferred against them.

Soviet Agents Hunted By U. S. On Orient Ship

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—With the report that a band of Russian Communists is enroute to the Pacific coast by boat from the Orient, Coast Guard cutters and other government boats are on the lookout, it was revealed today.

The group is believed due in this city at any time, as they left the Orient three weeks ago.

It was authortitavely reported than an attempt will be made to smuggle the Reds into this country.

First word of the expected arrival of the group was made known today when it was learned that the freighter Iowa, ten hours overdue from the Orient was taken in convoy by the cutter Shawnee Monday night. The cutter turned every one of its searchlights upon the freighter and ordered the ship to turn on every light.

It then escorted the freighter to quarantine, where it was boarded by a number of immigration inspectors and six Coast Guardsmen.

It was admitted that the search was not made for narcotics, but that the party was hunting for the group of accredited Soviet agents.
